Do A Good Deed

The deed that I did is to grow my hair for Locks of Love. Locks of Love is when you cut at least 10 inches of your hair off and mail it to them. Next, they make a wig out of your hair and give it to girls who have lost their hair from cancer.

I did this deed because my aunt died of cancer. If she knew that I was giving my hair to Locks of Love she would have been very proud of me. I also did this deed because I wouldn't want to be a little girl with cancer and lose my hair.

What happens because of my good deed is that now a girl with cancer will wear my hair and be happy no to be bald anymore. After the girl grows her hair back they can give the wig to another girl who needs it and now I will be helping many girls.

I am very proud of myself for helping these girls with cancer. Every time my hair grows long I will cut at least 10 inches off and give it to Locks of Love.
